Housing Development to Break Up Another Lovely Township Estate

The Clark property at the loot of Bayard Lane, one of Princeton's few remaining estates and some of its loveliest land, has been purchased by Design Interface.

The purchase price for 78 acres, including three ponds, guest house, swimming pool and main house was $2.3 million. The property was for many years the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Dudley Clark, who sold it in August, 1983, to Walter Slawski, an insurance magnate who has since moved to California. The purchase price in 1983 was $920,000.

Design Interface is the development subsidiary of the Hillier Group Architects and Planners. The firm, which developed the rlearby Knox property as The Glen, has filed three alternative site plans with the Planning Board for this new acquisition, which it plans to call Mountain Lakes. At the turn of the century, the ponds on the property were the source of ice that was cut in huge blocks, stored and delivered by horse and wagon to Princeton homes by the Mountain Lakes Ice Company.

The plans note "the unusual beauty of this site," which is wooded, fenced and tucked away in the heart of the Township. Community Park North borders the long driveway leading to the main house. The property is also bounded on the north by the 18th-century farmstead known as Tusculum, built by John Witherspoon, Scottish clergyman, sixth president of the College of New Jersey and a signer of the Declaration of Independence. Coventry Farm, truly the last remaining undeveloped farm estate, surrounds it on the west, and to the south are the private homes along Mountain Avenue and Henderson Place.

Mountain Brook, which feeds the man-made Community Park pond, forks within the southern portion of the property. In places

To Oppose Garage

Borough residents opposed to the new five-story Borough garage proposed for Tulane and Spring Streets have begun to lay the groundwork for a referendum on the garage's construction.

Ann McGoldrick, one of the leaders of the antigarage group, said that preparations for a referendum have begun, although the group would prefer to encourage Borough Council to rethink the garage planning.

"There is a short time frame between the passage of a bond ordinance and the filing of a referendum," she said. "We want to have everything ready should the Borough pass an ordinance which obligates it to indebtedness."

Signatures of ten percent of Borough property owners are required to get referendum on the

Conversion of Warehouse Proposed Into Two Apartments and an Office

A proposal to convert a three-story warehouse off Nassau Street to an office with two single-floor apartments above came before the Planning Board last week. Problems of access and fire protection were briefly touched upon before the board called an 11 p.m. curfew, and the application was continued to the next meeting on Thursday, March 20, at 7:30.

Little-known and out of sight of those hustling along Nassau Street, the warehouse is located behind PJ's Pancake house, on the same 37 by 100foot lot. It is accessible from a narrow alley running between the restaurant and the Bainbridge House headquarters of the Historical Society.

The conversion is being proposed by Princeton International Properties, which owns PJ's and a number of other commercial and residential income-producing properties in Princeton. Principals of Princeton International Properties are Martin and Margaret Tuchman of 633 Prospect Avenue.

The property received Planning Board approval in 1979 for a similar conversion involving office use on the ground floor and two duplex apartments above. Ken Ostheim. owner of Century 21-Carnegie Realty, held an option on the property, which he planned to subdivide. The warehouse was at the time being used by Kingston-Princeton Plumbing.

With James Britt as his attorney, Mr. Ostheim received Planning Board subdivision approval and was granted parking and bulk variances in

Borough Tax Increase Mainly for Sewer Costs

The $8.7 million municipal budget for 1986 was expected to be introduced at the Borough Council meeting scheduled for Tuesday, March 11. The tax rate will rise ten percent from last year, from 50 to 55 cents per $100 of assessed valuation.

The total 1986 property tax bill (including municipal, school and county taxes) for the owner of a Borough home assessed at $100,000 would be $180 more than last year. The increase on a house assessed at $150,000 would be $270. And the owner of a home valued at $200,000 would pay $360 more than last year.

The preliminary budget introduced last month showed a 15 percent tax jump, to 57.5 cents. This was changed, said Borough Administrator Mark Gordon, because the school and county tax rose some 2.5 cents from original estimates. Mayor and Council felt, said Mr. Gordon, that a 15 percent municipal hike would be too high given the increase in the other rates. Additional surplus was included in the budget to lower the rate.

Mainly Sewer Costs. This year's hudget of $8.7 million is nearly a million dollars higher than last year's $7.8 million budget. Most of the increase, said Mr. Gordon, resulted from increased sewer costs. This includes a figure of $375,000 for the capital improvement fund (of which $300,000 goes to sewers) and $242 (99) for somer mic renabilitation

The budget includes a six percent across-the-board inerease in salaries. However, final figures are not fixed because negotiations with the two Borough unions are still under way

The cost of insurance for the Borough has jumped $136,000, the library $51,000, and funds for senior citizens have risen

There has also been a shift in the percentage of joint operating expenses between Borough and Township, with the Borough's portion of these expenses rising from 35 to 37 percent.

According to Township
Engineer Robert V. Kiser, the recycling shed at the Princeton Shopping Center has the highest volume of all recycling centers in Mercer County. Moreover, the revenue it brings the Township under the state's incentive Recycling Tonnage Grant Program — while not up to the $170,000 that the Borough reportedly collects from parkwas passed in 1982.

In 1982, the Township received $3,000 from 260 tons of recycled newspaper and 131 tons of glass. The next year, the newspaper tonnage doubled, glass declined by half, but corrugated paper and leaves were added for a grant total of $7,916. In 1984, black top, old tires, old oil and hi-grade paper joined the list of recycled items, and the Township received a grand total of $15,880. To qualify for this amount, the municipality was credited for 539 tons of newspaper, 123 tons of glass, 635 tons of blacktop, 2,229 tons of leaves, 14 tons of old tires, 38 tons of old oil, 60 tons of corrugated paper, and 439 tons of hi-grade paper.

Where It All Goes. According to Mr. Kiser, leaves from the Township's annual fall leaf clean-up are trucked to Princeton Nurseries, where they are turned into mulch and compost. The glass is taken to the former Tiger Bus Line garage at the foot of John Street that is owned by the Township, where it is pulverized by front loader and scooped up for transfer to the Brockway glass manufacturing plant in Freehold.

Newspapers pile up in the big red trailer provided by Garden State Paper Co. of north Jersey so rapidly that the trailer has to be hauled away on the average of every four days, Mr. Kiser says. Brown paper bags and magazines are presently not recyclable and are disposed of by C&R Waste of Trenton.

The preliminary 1985 figures show 667 tons of newspaper recycled, 153 tons of glass, 1,875 tons of leaves, 355 tons of cor-

They could either continue to take their recyclables to the shed, or leave materials at the curb or the end of their driveways for County pick-up.

The County goal is to reduce the amount of solid waste destined for landfill by 22 percent. Mr. Kiser says that Princeton Township has already achieved a reduction of 12-15 percent of its solid waste volume, or 50 percent of the County goal.

TRENTON ROUNDUP

"Deodly Force"

A measure designed to allow crime victims a broader use of deadly force in self-defense has passed the state Assembly. Sponsored by Assemblyman Thomas H. Paterniti, D. Middlesex, the bill states that deadly force is justifiable if victims "reasonably believe" that such force is necessary to defend themselves, their loved ones, or their home.

The present statute states such force may be used only if the victim believes he is protecting himself from death or serious bodily harm.

The bill now goes to the state Senate for a vote.

Plonning Board Veto Power

Legislation that would give county planning boards the power to veto major development has been introduced in the state Assembly. It would require all counties in the state to adopt master plans and would give county planning boards veto power over any development of more than 60 residential units or 20,000 square feet of residential or commercial

Currently, county planning boards have jursidiction only over subdivisions that affect county drainage facilities or abut a county road

Hast Liability Bill

A state Senate committee has approved a bill to bar drunk drivers involved in accidents from suing their party hosts or the bar in which they drank. The legislation, sponsored by Sen. Raymond Lesnia, D. Union, also specifies the circumstances under which the victim of a drunk driver could sue the party host. This section does not affect victims of drivers who became drunk in a bar.

Concern has been voiced in Trenton that last-minute changes that provided partial protection to bar owners might hurt the bill's chances for approval by the full Legislature.

Urban Enterprise Zones

The state Senate has approved legislation allowing small, existing business to get the same tax breaks that new firms are allowed in Trenton and the nine other New Jersey cities with state urban enterprise zones.

Companies with fewer than 50 employees would get special tax incentives, including the right to charge only three percent sales tax on purchases.

Marcos Land Ruling

Superior Court Judge Paul Levy has barred the sale of land said to be owned by deposed Philippine President Ferdinand Marcos at 3850 Princeton Pike in Lawrenceville. A Cherry Hill property was also prohibited from sale. The 13-acre Lawrence estate is valued at more than $200,000.

Aluminum Recycling

Effective immediately, the Township Recycling Shed, located in the Princeton Shopping Center, will accept aluminum cans, in addition to newspaper and glass.

Aluminum cans should be empty and, if possible, crushed, for better storage. No tin or bi-metal cans will be accepted. Recyclers are asked to check the cans to make sure the sides, top, and bottom are all aluminum. This can be done with a small magnet. Cans which are not attracted by a magnet or are marked "all aluminum cans" will be accepted at the shed

The Recycling Shed is open for drop-off of items Monday through Saturday, 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m The shed is closed on holidays and Sundays. Those wishing assistance in unloading their vehicles should come to the shed between the hours of 9:30 and 4:30 while the Township attendant is on burglary and thelt. He has a March to date in Borough

Five days later, on March 4, while Borough police were atill investigating the above incident, a Stanworth Lane resident was washing her dishes at 3:45 when she turned around and saw a man in her apartment. When she confronted him, he asked her, "Do you want your windows washed?"

The suspect left the premises and the occupant notified police of the incident. At police headquarters, she, too, identified McGowan as the suspect from a photo lineup. He was charged again with intent to commit burglary and theft.

Assisting Det. Sutton in the investigation were Sgt. Ronald Holliday and Ptl. Ralph Terracciano.

Theft Suspect Caught, A suspect in a Dillon Gym theft last week was apprehended later the same day and charged by Borough police.

Charged with theft and possession of stolen property is Brian S. Wilkins, 23, of Trenton. Scheduled to appearl in Borough court April 2, Wilkins was turned over to Trenton police who have an outstanding warrant for his arrest.

A university student informed police that someone had stolen his duffel bag from the side of the court while he had been playing basketball at Dillon Gym between 5:30 and 7 last Tuesday, Inside were items valued at $44 Ptl Terracciano investigated.

About 8:30 p.m., police received a call of a suspicious person standing on the corner of Library Place and Stockton. Ptl. Terraeciano responded and talked to the suspect, who told him he was waiting for a bus The officer noted, however, that he was standing 100 feet from the bus stop and leaning against a brick wall.

A check with Trenton police revealed the suspect was wanted there and when police checked the area they found a green cloth gym bag hidden behind the wall. The suspect claimed the bag was his but when Ptl. Terracciano looked inside he found the white duffel bag that had been stolen from Dillon gym.

During processing, Wilkins was found to be in possession of a credit card that had been reported stolen February 10 in Houston, Tex.

The schools involved are John Witherspoon, Stuart, Chapin, Princeton Day School and Hun. Right now, the planning group, which also includes some 25 middle school students, hopes to begin operating an after-school center at the Arts Council Building, Witherspoon Street and Paul Robeson Place, in April.

Last week, a questionnaire was distributed to middle school students in the five schools asking what they would like to have in an after-school center. Would they like, for example, movies, ping-pong, special trips, dances, vending rink, would also be utilized as machines, or video games? the program developed.

Wanna Buy Move a House?

An "open house" will be held Saturday from 10 a.m. to noon when Borough Mayor Barbara Sigmund conducts interested people around a three-story house at 257 Nassau Street.

The turn-of-the-century dwelling is scheduled for demolition to make way for Davidson's new store. And the Borough has offered the house free to anyone who will move it from its site.

The mayor, who proposed an "Adopt-a-House" pro-gram in her New Year's Day message, did not know the cost of moving a house. She said, however, that Borough Council could pass an ordinance changing zoning laws to allow a wider range of locations for an adopted house.

She added that a house at 43 Spring Street is architecturally similar to the one to be demolished and would show how the Nassau Street dwelling might eventually

The mayor is also seeking someone to move a house at 180 Alexander Street, which she said was in imminent danger of demolition. The house at 257 Nassau is slated to be the victim of the wrecker's ball sometime during the week of March

The flistorical Society's current lecture series, "Period Rooms: Bringing History to Life," will end with a slide/lecture by Gretchen Schneider entitled "The Art of Being a Gentle Person: a Look at 18th-Century Upperclass Women's Clothing, Bainbridge House and Its Social Life."

The lecture will be given Thursday at the Princeton University Art Museum's McCormick Hall. The program is free and open to the public.

Dr. Schneider is an authority on the history of costume, manners, and deportment. Among the many institutions where she has served as a consultant or presented her re-search are Colonial Williamsburg, the National Gallery of Art, the Brooklyn Museum, and the Smithsonian Institution's National Museum of American History. Two College Presidents Here for Antiques Show

The presidents of Wellesley and Mount Holyoke Colleges are expected to attend the March 20 preview which will usher in the annual three-day Princeton Antiques Show.

Nannerl O Keohane, president of Wellesley, and Elizabeth T. Kennan, president of Mount Holyoke, will join their fellow alumnae and other guests for the occasion, which will also feature a huffet catered by Jimmy Duffy of Philadephia, champagne and an open bar, and musical entertainment.

The two presidents share a number of characteristics. Both are in their forties; both were inaugurated within the last 10 years; both were elected to Phi Beta Kappa as undergraduates at the colleges they now head; both were Woodrow Wilson fellows; both did graduate work at Oxford University; both are mothers, corporate directors, authors, and honorary degree holders

The Antiques Show preview marks the first joint visit of the two presidents to the Princeton area, where both colleges have

Low-interest Mortgages

New, 9.94 percent, 30-year fixed-rate mortgages are available to Mercer County residents earning $28,000 or less. These mortgages will also be made available to families buying in Trenton, regardless of income.

The state has committed $156.7 million for these fixed-rate loans in the nation's first year-round program for urban and moderate-income home buyers.

On an average mortgage amount of $55,000, the 9.94 percent loan will save a family $35 a month compared with a conventional loan at 10.8 percent. The loans require a down payment of five percent. The agency charges two points, or two percent of the loan amount. This is one point less than many conventional mortgages.

The NJHMFA will also continue to make its 10.7 percent 30-year loans available to buyers in Mercer county earning $34,000 or

To Your Health...

The following is part of a series of articles published from time to time by the Princeton Regional Health Commission.

Healthy Mothers, Healthy Children

Healthy mothers and healthy children are a concern of the Princeton Regional Health Department. That concern is being met through two important Health Department services: the Child Health Conference and the Women, Infants and Children (W.I.C.) program.

The Child Health Conference provides health checkups and shots for babies and children through age six. These free checkups provide important information about a baby's growth and possible health problems. The Women, Infants and Children program provides checks that can be used to buy healthful foods at certain area stores. These foods are for pregnant women, babies, women who are breast-feeding and children up to age five.

Getting an early start to good health is important. Young children should be brought to a doctor regularly, even when they are not sick, to make sure that their bones and muscles are developing correctly. By measuring an infant's head and chest over a period of several months, a doctor can tell whether the baby is growing properly. Height and weight are also checked for the same reason. All of these exams are conducted at the Princeton Child Health Conferences, located at the Valley Road Building in Princeton.

Blood and urine samples, blood pressures should also be taken periodically before a child is sick, to make sure that the child is growing properly in other areas and that no health problems are developing. These tests, along with checking eyesight and hearing, testing for Tuberculosis and screening for lead poisoning, are also available through the Child Health Conference.

Every child entering school in New Jersey must be immunized against certain diseases that can be transmitted from person to person. Each shot is given at a different age, when the child most needs its protection. Parents should keep a record of each child's immunizations to be sure that all the mandated shots have been given. A doctor can tell parents what shots are needed and when. Measles, Mumps, Rubella, Polio, Diphtheria, Tetanus and Whooping Cough (Pertussis) are among the types of immunizations offered at Princeton's Child Health Conference. These are also the shots required by schools.

Babies grow more quickly during the first year of life than at any other time. Good nutrition is necessary for this growth, but young mothers are often confused about breast feeding, using formulas, starting solid foods and using vitamins. They are also unaware of the dangers of their smoking and alcohol use on the unborn child. Nurses and doctors who work at the Child Health Conference can help mothers with questions about what foods are good for babies and children. Information is also given about infant sleeping patterns, toilet training for toddlers and other habits of children.

Mothers who use the Child Heelth Conference also learn about safety in the home, how to prevent accidental poisoning and stages of development in children. They can receive assistance with such parenting concerns as abuse, neglect and discipline.

Women can get nutritious foods through the Princeton Regional Health Department's W.I.C. (Women, Infants and Children) program if they are pregnant or have a beby and meet certain financial requirements. Some of the healthful food include: milk, eggs, cheese, juice, cereal and infant formula. Mothers or mothers-tobe are taught about choosing foods that will help develop good eating habits for themselves and their families.

Princeton residents who want to apply for the W.I.C. program should contact the Department of Community Health Services at 924-4626 between the hours of 9 and 5. Mothers or mothers-to-be will be given an appointment to fill out an application and/or have their baby's height, weight end blood checked. Once in the program, participants must return to pick up checks and be periodically recertified

There are no financial requirements for using the free Child Health Conference. Appointments are necessary and can be made by calling the Department of Community Heelth Services at 924-4626. The clinic is held on the first and third Thursday morning of each month at the Valley Road Building located at the corner of Valley Road end Witherspoon Street. The Medical Center at Princeton's Department of Community Health Services provides both the Child Health Conference and the W.I.C. program on behalf of the Health Department. For more information ebout either program, call the Department of Community Heelth Services or the Princeton Regional Health Department at 924-3407

The 1979 approval, good for three years, elapsed in 1982. Interested in making use of the warehouse behind PJ's, which they own, the Tuchmans contacted Mr. Britt and Mr. Zvosec to see what could be done. According to Mr. Britt, who was the source of this recent history, Mr. Zvosec has redrawn his original plans somewhat this time around

Several Variances, Planning Board review began, as is now the custom, with a summary of the application by Planning Director Duggan Kimhall, Mr. Kimball noted that several variances are required, at least one of which has to do with access from a main thoroughfare. The alley between PJ's and Bainbridge House measures nine feet, Mr. Kimhall nnted, six feet wide. This is because of out from the exterior restaurant wall

Mr. Kimball said the application could be of benefit to the downtown in terms of rehabilitating an old, unused building and providing housing. Before continuing his summary further, he called on the Fire Chief, Peter Hodge, for his re-

He called the exhaust hood in the exterior wall of PJ's a "high grease risk factor" which could set ablaze "a curtain of fire" in the alley between the two buildings that no fire apparatus or fireman could penetrate.

The residents in the two apartments proposed for the warehouse would be trapped, he suggested, with no means of either fleeing or being rescued. It would be very difficult to provide these residents a "safe area of refuge," Mr. Majewski warned. A drop in grade and a sharp turn from the alley to the warehouse also present problems in providing fire protecion directly to the building, as does the distance of more than 100 feet from Nassau Street, should firemen attempt to fight a fire from equipment parked outside.

Borough Police Captain Thomas Michaud, who had raised issues of traffic and safety during U-Store's earlier appearance before the Planning Board, described the improvements in the parking lot as "substantial" and the enlarging of the loading dock as 'considerably safer.

Planning Board members were similarly enthusiastic about what Georgantes Aristides called "fabulous progress" and James Sayen described as "a tremendous improvement." As a result the vote to approve was not only unanimous but included the variances, conditional use extension, deed restriction to the parking lot and parking plan that the University requested

The Planning Board also granted a "home occupation" conditional use authorization to Sonya Hildrew for customerviewing of art work in her home on Baldwin Lane off Ridgeview Road. Permission was granted for two years only, after which Mrs. Hildrew must reapply, the board stipulated no more

For furwife Laura T. Lowe of Short ther information, call the farm Hills. Dr. and Mrs. Lowe are at 397-0449 or the Mercer Counprincipals as well in a partner-ship called Chatham Capital In-vestors which holds title to some of the lots on which office development is proposed.

The Planning Board reviewed the development in concept in October and in noting the environmental constraints asked the developer to reduce the scope and size of the proposed complex.

The tract is covered by extensive and mature woodland. The proposed buildings and parking area will mean a loss of 6.7 acres of trees, but the plans note that the loss will be "minimized" by the low floor area ratio (18 percent is permitted under present zoning) and by the deferral of 20 percent of the required parking.

Access to the development will be from Bunn Drive and from the adjacent portion of future Stuart Road, which the Master Plan shows as eventually being extended from Cherry Hill Road across Route 206 to connect with Bunn Drive.

Traffic studies show that at full build, this office park would

Volunteers for Library

Brook-Stony Milistone Watershed Association has been accumulating a wealth of reading material for an environmental library.

During the past few years the library has been available for use by officials in the environmental field. The library consists of a collection of books on environmental, conservation and natural history topics; periodicals; miscellaneous pamphlets and official municipal, county and state reports. To make the library more accessible to the public the Watershed Association is seeking volunteers to help organize and catalog the col-lection. Volunteers need no experience, and anyone who can offer a few hours a week is asked to help out. For more information, call 737-

Helicopter Brings New Flexibility to Conduct of Business in Area

A top executive with a Princeton corporation begins his day in the Route 206 rush hour, heading north out of Princeton. In 10 minutes he is at Princeton Airport. A Bell Jet Ranger helicopter whisks him to a meeting in lower Manhattan in just 20 minutes.

Back at his desk in Princeton by late morning, he continues to conduct business through a working lunch. Before 3 he is in the air enjoying panoramic views of the Delaware Valley during the 20-minute trip to Philadelphia where he completes his scheduled appointments. Back at Princeton Airport shortly after 5, he calls it a day and heads home in the evening traffic.

He has made meetings in three states and hit both the morning and evening rush hours but has spent well under two hours traveling. The helicopter has brought a new flexibility to conducting business in the Princeton area.

Just over the county line at Princeton Airport in Montgomery Township, Analar Corporation began operation in July. This charter helicopter service is expanding the availability of a mode of transport that is shrinking New

> Each day corporate helicopters make the 20 minute trip to lower Manhattan or center city Philadelphia from one of more than a dozen helicopter pads just outside of Princeton. There is an ordinance against helistops in Princeton, but helipads dot the area surrounding town. On Route One, helipads are maintained by Dow Jones, Merrill Lynch, Ferminich, J&J, RCA, the Carnegie Center, and Forrestal Airport. The state police have helipads at their Route One headquarters and just outside of Princeton Washington Road.

> New Jersey has more helipads than any other state, with more than 400 helipads and a dozen heliports, where the aircraft are hangared, refueled, and serviced. Because of the state's small size and easy access to New York and Philadelphia, the helicopter is an ideal mode of transport for short hops in and out of the cities and around the state. The helicopter allows husinesses to maintain closer. more personal networks than the most advanced telecommunications by quickly delivering people, not just messages.

> While airplanes take off with a running start and space ships lift off over a burst of fire the helicopter rises without benefit of rockets or wings. "The rotating blades of the helicopter create a difference in air pressure above and below years in the military, including a year in Vietnam, and for 81/2 years with the N.J. State Police, "The decreased pressure allows it to rise."

The nature of the whirling action which allows it to fly also restricts even the largest helicopters to a top speed of Expensive and Noisy. Helicopters have their using are local commute. "They are in ground traffic with everyone else to get to and from home. The helicopter is an accepted corporate tool for companies that need to move people in a hurry. It's too expensive for com-muting."

The helicopter gives incredible flexibility to scheduling but it comes at a very high price. Analar charges $6.25 per minute, with a 20-minute minimum, or $375 an hour. Typical flights accommodate the heavy schedules of top executives who need to come as close as possible to being in two places at the same time. The Analar helicopter is also kept busy with charter work for aerial photography and aerial Helicopters' noise bothers many people. In her New Year's Day address Mayor Barbara Sigmund evoked the helicopter as a symbol of area development and urged corporate executives to cut down on the helicopters over Princeton.

Helicopter pilots do make an effort to be good neighbors. For safety, visibility, and noise control, helicopters usually fly at 1,400 feet with a minimum altitude of 1,000 feet.

Surprisingly, most of the traffic above town is not headed for Princeton or the Route One complexes. Because of operating costs, helicopters try to fly the shortest distance between two points. According to Bill Kimm, this rarely brings Princeton Airport or Route One bound helicopters over Princeton. Most of the traffic overhead is headed to and from Trenton or other destinations beyond Princeton.

Many other area corporations have their own helicopters which are kept off-site where they can be hangared and maintained. Dow Jones, RCA, and J&J are among the porations basing helicopters at Mercer Airport. The New Jersey National Guard fleet of more than 20 helicopters, a half dozen state the whirling 'wing'," explains police helicopters, and com-Mr. Kimm, who flew for four mercial helicopters operated mercial helicopters operated by Ronson Air are also based at Mercer and add to the busy Central Jersey skies.

As development brings more businesses offering more diverse products and services, perhaps "Greater Princeton" will become a more selfsustaining metropolis and there will be less need to leave the area quickly. More likely, the demand for helicopter travel will increase. As development continues to spread, helicooters will become more of a fact of life for annoyed residents beneath the noisy sky and busy executives racing above the

Corporate Sponsorship For Circus Fundraiser

Merrill Lynch and Carnegie Center Associates are sponsoring the return of the Big Apple Circus to central New Jersey this spring.

Their grants to the RP Foundation Fighting Blindness (RPF) and Creative Theatre Unlimited (CTU) will make possible a six-day run of the Big Apple Circus, at Carnegie Center, May 8-13. CTU and RPF will host a special benefit performance on May 9.

The grant from Merrill Lynch is part of its ongoing charitable and cultural support program that earned a "Business in the Arts Award" two years in row.

The awards are presented annually by the Business Committee for the Arts, a national, not-for-profit organization committed to encouraging new and increased support for the arts from the business community.

from the business community.

"The Merrill Lynch program," says John L. Steffens, president, Merrill Lynch Consumer Markets, "is aimed at enhancing the quality of life in the communities in which we work and live."

Alan Landis, managing general partner of Carnegie Center Associates who also sponsored the circus last year, says, "When we began building Carnegie Center, we felt that we were bringing to suburban office development and, in particular, to Princeton a bold, new kind of town. The Big Apple Circus has also brought a bold, new kind of circus to the hundreds of thousands of people who have seen its performances. We're proud to welcome the Big Apple Circus again to New Jersey and in the process be supporting Creative Theatre and the RP Foundation."

Llura Gund and Wendy Benchley, co-chairman of the benefit evening, emphasized, "Corporations like Merrill Lynch and Carnegie Center Associates who build working partnerships with charitable and cultural organizations are essential to the vitality of New Jersey communities."

Leasing Has Begun At University Square

RH Development Company has begun leasing office and research space in Phase I of its University Square complex and anticipates dedication of the Phase I buildings in June. University Square is located across Alexander Road from Carnegie Center and the Princeton Hyatt Regency.

This first phase consists of three single-story buildings totalling 131,000 square feet. The exterior design includes a pewter glass curtain wall with terra cotta tile accents. Phases II and IIf, consisting of multistory office buildings will bring the total complex to 560,000 square feet.

Fitm on Cocaine Abuse From Merrill Lynch

Merrill Lynch, in conjunction with the National Basketball Players Association, has cosponsored the production of "Cocaine Drain," a program on cocaine abuse. Copies in tape and 16mm format are available to community organizations through all of the firm's offices.

The presentation includes interviews with, among others, former NBA stars John Lucas and David Thompson and with

''FAIRVIEW''

Hopewell, N.J.

Sophisticated and elegant interiors contrast with the delightful country feeling of this Greek Revival House built by Ichobod Leigh in 1835. Combining elements of style from different historical periods, the house reflects the prosperity of the time. An exquisite Palladian window lights the upstairs sitting hall and plaster moldings, ceiling rosettes and marble lireplaces define the double parlors, dining room and library. The kitchen is contemporary with quarry tile floor. Reception room, center hall, 6 bedrooms, 21/2 baths and a cupola complete this residence on 7.75 acres lush with specimen azaleas, rhododendrons, bulbs and flowering trees. The house has been fully restored by the Princeton Historical Society and is on the National Historic Registry. $487,500

Dramatically different, this handsome, newly-built house now available in prestigious Russell Estates offers gracious living for a family and a glamorous setting for the entertainment of many guests. A vestibule opens to a spacious foyer, wide half and huge 2 story living room with a classic Palladian window, formal dining room, library, each with fireplace, gourmet kitchen with breakfast area, half bath and master suite on first floor. Two bedrooms and bath on second. $570,000

ROSEDALE ROAD

A circular drive from this picturesque road, just past Princeton's western border, leads to this unique Contemporary. On 3 beautiful acres and custom built, the numerous rooms are flexible and lend themselves to a wide variety of uses. One wing, with a separate entrance, is currently a doctor's office with a waiting room, consulting rooms, dressing rooms and lavatories. The foyer opens to a gracious living room with a free standing fireplace separating it from the formal dining room, gourmet kitchen, master bedroom with 2 baths and family room on first. Loft/study and guest suite on second. Recreation room, two 2-bedroom suites and maid's quarters on lower level. Special features include skylights, beamed ceilings, large deck, patio and 3 car garage. $650,000

In the charming village of Lawrenceville, facing the Campus, the peaked roof of this attractive house proudly proclaims its Victorian heritage. Well built and greatly upgraded through the years, it offers pleasant living for a growing family utilizing the entire house or for an owner living on first floor with a rental apartment above. Living room, dining room, modern kitchen, family room with woodburning stove, bedroom and bath on first floor. Four rooms and bath on second. Two rooms on third. Delightful deck overlooking beautiful grounds. Detached 2 car garage with large.

GORDON WAY

A condominium with four spacious bedrooms, 2½ baths and a panelled study? Rare - but possible as evidenced by this attractive end unit in Queenston Commons. Also included, a huge living room with brick-wall fireplace and sliding doors to a flagstone terrace, separate dining room, modern kitchen with breakfast area, full basement and garage. Air conditioned. Maintenance fee includes use of tennis court and swimming pool. Also for rent at $1650 plus utilities. Available now for one year or longer.

$219,000

A curving brick walk bordered by a delightful variety of plantings leads to this attractive Colonial in Elm Ridge Park. An interesting doorway with leaded glass opens to a spacious foyer, gracious living room, formal dining room, powder room and kitchen with a charming dining-solarium (with roof windows) and family room with brick wall fireplace, both opening to a deck overlooking nature's woodland. Four bedrooms and 2 baths on second. Attractive features include the rolling countryside and good schools of Hopewell Township.

RIVERS EDGE

Overlooking the Delaware River in Lambertville, this luxurious riverfront townhouse has dramatic views from two balcony decks and patio. One of just eleven individually designed units, it is located in the heart of Lambertville, a short stroll across the bridge to New Hope, with the possibility of a dock for boat or canoe. With many custom details of high quality, it offers: large living room with fireplace and river view, formal dining room, modern kitchen, three spacious bedrooms, $2\frac{1}{2}$ baths, one with bidet and Jacuzzi.

When Frances Clark was an undergraduate at Kalamazoo College in her native Michigan, she majored in English and French literature, with enough philosophy and psychology throwo in to constitute a third

There was no music department at Kalamazoo in the mid-1920s, and since she was something of a piano prodigy from childhood studies with her mother's former piano teacher, she commuted 15 miles to study music at what is now Western Michigan University. There she also served as teaching assistant to the head of the music department, a professor of piano, organ and music theory.

Today, known around the world for her pioneering approach to music education, and for the innovative and comprehensive library of materials for piano study she developed, Miss Clark looks back on her early music-teaching ex-periences with some dismay.

"I knew all the time I was teaching," she says, "that I had no right to be doing it. Nothing I was doing made sense." She had always known that teaching was her calling, however, and right after graduation in 1928 she taught high school English in her hometown of Sturgis, Mich., for two years.

Her reputation c mazoo, made the two years of English teaching "some of the most exciting years of my life."

She taught piano afternoons and weekends, and some of some adults what she was learning in the set out to change piano teaching for other people," Miss Clark responds, when asked how her notable career began.

"I knew I had to change what I was doing. And I knew what I was doing was phenomenal from as far away as Chicago doing. I had a good time showthings were wrong.

In January, Clavier, the monthly journal for piano teachers, featured Miss Clark on the cover of its 25th anniversary issue, hoooring her in part for 20 years of writing a question-and-answer column addressed to specific teacher concerns. The National Conference on Piano Pedagogy chose her as the first recipient of its Lifetime Achievement Award in 1984, a year after the Emeritus Club of Kalamazoo College honored her as 'America's First Lady of Piano Education.'

> Although there is an 18-year age difference between the two women, they have mutual interests in books and in music, and had even shared some of the same teachers in college. The friendship became a remarkable partnership that has continued for 40 years.

Entry into Publishing. In the early 1950s, a major Chicago music publishing house asked Miss Clark to revise its catalog of music study materials. She concluded that revision was not possible — a whole new course of study needed to be written and she asked Miss Goss, who was by this time teaching musicology at the University of Michigan and working on a doctorate, to join her in that endeavor.

The first volume in the Frances Clark Library was published in 1955 and was considered revolutionary in its approach. That same year Miss Clark was invited with Miss Goss to set up a program in piano pedagogy at Westminster Choir College. In five years the program had swelled to some 400 children and 15 pedagogy students, more than Princeton Shopping Center, North Harrison Street, Princeton (609-924-9640), Luncheon, Dinner, Sunday Brunch.

Several years ago Roberta Churchill opened a gourmet take-out shop in Princeton. She named it La Cuisine and sold the sort of avant-garde goodies that many Princetonians had only read about

But by 1984 Churchill was ready for a change. Her goal was a restaurant of her own, and by the summer of that year she had one. But opening the restaurant meant closing La Cuisine. Fortunately, innovative food was not sacrificed in the transition, and today Roberta's scrves some of the most imaginative fare in the

The decor here is quite striking, a fact that is all the more surprising when you consider that the site Roberta chose for her restaurant was a simple storefront in an otherwise lackluster shopping center. She transformed a long, narrow room into one with considerable style, although the front door allows cold air to intrude on chilly nights.

Tables are arranged with staccato precision along both walls, but with only a few inches of space separating most of them private conversation can be difficult. A basic black-and-white color scheme is brightened by colorful rugs, mirrors, and a greenhouse window facing the mall.

Roberta's menu changes frequently to capitalize on the freshest of the season's provender, so it's possible that the items in this review are no longer offered. No matter. Those who put their faith in Roberta's kitchen will not be disappointed.

The menu, though limited to half a dozen appetizers and seven entrees, is liberally spangled with the very latest culinary buzzwords. Sun-dried tomatoes, bell pepper confit, and goat cheese all play a role in Roberta's imaginative creations.

Among the appetizers, a novel presentation of duck sausage and shrimp was broiled on a chower and served with a fine cranberry-and-orange relish. Its delicacy was much more striking than that of the buffalo mozzarella combined with prosciutto, which was so tough it couldn't be cut with a knife.

Two a la carte salads are worth considering, particularly one in which goat cheese, English walnuts, and assorted greens are tossed with a light tarragon dressing. The other, a toss of assorted wild mushrooms, is served slightly warm to bring out the fullness of the mushrooms' flavor.

Among the entrees, we found little to fault. Fillet nf red snapper was prepared according to a recipe of famous Swiss chef Freddie Giradet. The sweetly delicate flavor of the fish was set off nicely by onion compote and tomato butter. Inventiveness was evident, too, in sauteed fresh salmon that had been coated with crunchy white peppercorns. While the concept for this dish was certainly novel, it took the accompanying confit of sweet red pepper to provide a soothing counterpoint to the peppercorns. The best of the scafood dishes was the New Orleans classic, seafood gumbo, which had been enhanced with a high-voltage file powder made from dried sassafras leaves. The gumbo's mixture of crab, mussels, shrimp, and oysters had been simmered ever so lightly in a tomatobased broth and served with spicy Cajun

The rack of lamb was served with a Gorgonzola sauce that was too salty, but the lamb itself was exquisite. Perhaps the most inventive of the menu's offering was the boneless chicken breast accompanied by candied grapefruit peel, candied ginger, and a light sauce made from grapefruit and cream.

Roberta makes all the restaurant's pastries. She must be very busy, for there's always a bewitching assortment on the trolley. Homemade ice creams are good, too, although we found the bittersweet chocolate sauce to be granular on one occasion. As an alternative to sweet desserts, try the imported cheeses with seasonal fruits.

In Comfort and Joy Bill Paterson plays Alan Bird, a cheery, carly-morning radio disc jockey whose life has suddenly started to come apart at the seams. His girlfriend has walked out on him, his dentist hurts him, his psychiatrist is uncomprehending, and as Christmas approaches, he is left lonely, lost and in search of 'new meaning" in life.

To make matters worse, Bird has become involved in a bitter territorial dispute between Glasgow's rival Italian icecream vendors — Mr. Bunny and Mr. McCool — and both sides keep damaging his car to register their displeasure at his peace-making efforts.

Casting Call Is Issued For Singers and Actors

The Pennington Players will hold auditions this weekend for their upcoming production of I'm Getting My Act Together and Toking It On the Rood, a musical by Gretchen Cryer and Nancy Ford. Auditions will be held at the Arts Council building, 102 Witherspoon Street, Saturday at 3 and Sunday at 7.

Parts being cast include Heather, 39-year-old female lead, a singer; Joe, male lead, non-singer, mid- to late-30's; Alice and Cheryl, backup singers, in their mid-30s; Jake, a guitarist, singer, mid-20s; and additional musicians with good stage presence for backup vocals. Casting will take into onsideration individual acting and movement, plus good vocal blending and balanced appearance.

Those auditioning for the singing roles are asked to come prepared with a vocal selection of their choice. Songs from this show are preferred but not mandatory. Those wishing to be considered for the lead roles should also come prepared with a one to three-minute contemporary monologue. Additional materials, both vocal and reading, will be available as needed

IT'S NEW TO US

Quality Reproductions At Gasiors Furniture

"I enjoy dealing with people," says Dick Gasior, coowner with his wife Donna of Gasior's Furniture & Accessories at 2152 Route 206, Belle Mead. "Our customers are our friends. The relationship we've built up with people over the years is very special."

In the eight years since Gasior's opened its doors, customers have come to know and rely upon both the quality of the furniture and the service offered at this outstanding over the state and beyond to shop for fine furniture.

Customers have traveled for the store is special in that it focuses on a particular quality. Customers have traveled from as far away as West Hartford, Conn., reports Mr. Gasicr.
"It is not unusual for someone to come in from a great distance and be excited, and that makes us feel good. Sometimes, they'll stop in with friends and relatives and become customers. It's very rewarding.

niture is available at Gasior's, but its specialty is 18th-Century reproductions. "We have a very strong representation in that area," explains Mr. Gasior, "I was especially interested in that period, in the historical aspect of the fur-niture and the quality at-tributed to this particular ticular period.

"We've sought out the top manufacturers," he continues, "and not only do we carry their furniture, we also have a good representation of the furniture on the floor. People can really sce the furniture and not just rely on catalogues.

"Also," he adds, "customers can find something unusual A variety of top-quality fur- We don't have a dozen of the same piece."

> Gasior's carries bedroom, dining room, living room and family room furniture, as well as "very unusual accent pieces, such as secretaries of excep-tional calibre, small tables you won't find every place, and unusual consoles. We have an excellent selection of dining rooms, with probably more than a dozen different chairs to select from, all in the 18th-Century sytle.

Mr. Gasior also notes that their Charleston reproductions have attracted many people to the British Trust Collection. "Furniture makes a statement," he emphasizes. "People like to have a focal point in the oom, a piece that is special, one that you can build the room around."

Gasior's has many such pieces. An outstanding example is a handcarved mahogany secretary by John Wid-dicombe. "This is an exceptional piece," says Mr. Gasior admiringly. "It's a relatively new addition. Most often, peo-ple think of Widdicombe only in the show rooms, but we're stocking Widdicombe furniture on the floor.'

Quilts on View

Clayton's on Palmer Square is sponsoring an exthrough Saturday.

Antique and contemporary quilts will be displayed in the windows and throughout the store. There will also be quilting demonstrations in the fabric department all week.

One of the quilts featured is the YWCA Bicentennial quilt, which was made by an adult quilting class in 1976. Examples of patchwork, applique, and white-on-white will be displayed. Victorian crazy quilts and the familiar log cabin pattern are among the many quilts on loan from the community.

The quilts may be seen during store hours, Monday-Wednesday 9-5:30, Thursday and Friday 9 a.m. -8:30 p.m. and Saturday 9 to 5:30. For further information call 924-3300 it is a magnificent example of the period.

Also by Baker is a classic mahogany reproduction "Chest on Chest on Chest". It is actually three chests, each one sitting on top of the other, but designed to look like one piece. Easily disassembled, it is convenient to move. The original was produced by Thomas Elfe.

Other extraordinary pieces include graceful consoles made here. We try not to duplicate. of several types of wood with fine inlay, and a handsome upholstered chair from the British National Trust Collec-

> Variety and high quality are distinguishing characteristics of 18th-Century furniture, explains Mr. Gasior. "18th-Century lends itself to collection of pieces rather than sets," he says. "It's very fine quality and offers variety, too. There are very elegant, fancy pieces, but simple country pieces also. Both are popular."

Accessories are also in demand at Gasior's and reasonably priced. Plates, ginger jars, brass items, wooden decoys range from $3 to $150. A plate and sconce, for instance, are $16, and as Mr. Gasior notes," You can decorate fair-

Furniture prices vary, depending on the type. Tables run from $150 to $1,500, for example. But, adds Mr. Gasior, "you don't really pay that much move for fine furniture than for average furniture. You're getting better value. It's very fine quality. You'd be surprised that the price difference is not that much more. It's not enough to sway you.'

Emphasis on Service. Gasior's emphasizes service, and with that in mind, the staff of the interior design department was recently enlarged to three. "We are a service-oriented store," Mr. Gasior says. "We provide an interior colors, etc. People are taking triguing toys. advantage of this. It's very helpful. If you're in need of furniture, why not avail yourself of someone's expertise?

Most people try to make their home unique, to reflect their personalities," he continues. "We strive to help in that. It's nice to know that you don't have to go to New York or Philadelphia. You have the "Raggedy Ann is a friend to a right here. The designers can save you hours of searching.'

The store also has a wide selection of carpet and fabric samples on the floor.

In keeping with its effort to make shopping at Gasior's a congenial experience for all, a playroom has been set up for children. While their parents see to the serious business of selecting a new living room, the offspring can enjoy themselves with variety of toys, sit at the old-fashioned schoolroom desk or write or draw on the blackboard.

Establishing an unpressured, pleasant atmosphere is an important priority for Mr. Gasior. "We don't have the staff rush out at people," he remarks. "We'll ask if they need help, and then they can browse at their leisure.

The tone is set from the moment customers enter the building (for many years Harlingen Schoolhouse). The spacious, attractive store, with sections set up as different rooms, provides a relaxed agreeable ambiance in which to survey the furniture and ac-

Also for the girls is a bountiful supply of bright and glittery jewelry — earrings, bracelets and necklaces ("Our jewelry even appeals to adults!" says Mrs. Rice), as well as kits to string your own beads - and a variety of barrettes (some with velcro added to the closings for hard to hold hair), adorable handmade bows and little bottles of bubble bath. If the children are delighted by the treasures waiting within, their parents are equally pleased to discover the new store. "Customers are realizing we're here now," remarks Mrs. Rice. There has really been a wonderful response. They say, 'Oh, we needed a store like this so much!' It's been very positive."

Customers have been receptive to the selection of unusual items. Owner Jayne Englehart, who also has two other children's shops in New Jersey, has made a special effort to provide not only a wide but an interesting selection of clothing, notes Mrs. Rice, "You won't find what we have in every other store," she comments. Babies are by no means neglected at Lobel's, and as Mrs. Rice says, "We have gifts such as rattles, mobiles and tiny padded hangers and a wide assortment of baby clothing and other accessories. We also have accessories for cribs, layettes and catalogues to order special blankets.

There are two dressing rooms, and Mrs. Rice explains that everything is exchangeable. The store also provides mailing service and gift wrapping.

The bright cheerful atmosphere of Lobel's is bound to attract customers, whether for browsing or buying. A children's store is a happy place. It's fun for everyone.

As Mrs. Rice, a Princeton resident, notes, "The people contact is so nice. It's fun for me to be here. About every other person who comes in, I know! I especially like it when people come in and may not know just what they want, and we can help them out. It's also such fun when children come in whatever the age. Individual, Couple, Family, and Group Therapy for Children, Adolescents, Adults

To the Editor of Town Topics: Two separate issues have arisen in Princeton borough recently that are acutally linked. The first is the proposed multi story parking garage at Tulane and Spring Streets; the second is the proposed taking of part of Quarry Park and all of Hamilton Avenue park for aftadable housing.

With the rush to development of Princeton and its environs the temptation to satisfy the unceasing demands for more affordable housing and more parking by slicing off pieces of parkland and by building monolithic parking garage structures on land which at least has some of the qualities of open space are perhaps understandable. Understandable but shortsighted and

Both projects will result in the radical diminution of the quality of borough life that is the very reason everyone wants to work and live in Princeton in the first place. Both proposals will create more traffic congestion, more automobile exhaust for all of us to breathe, less pedestrian safety (in town where it is now more difficult to cross the street, I find, than in Manhattan), less green space, less open space, and, in the case of the garage I am certain, more

Proponents of the garage as well as of the affordable housing sites seek to place opponents on the defensive. In the case of the garage, they sug-gest we care nothing for shoppers or employees who need to park; worse, out of a misplaced 'liberalism'', they call those of us who object to the taking of parkland for affordable housing secret bigots. It's simply unintelligent to call someone trying to save open space a big-

Clearly the issues of affordable housing versus parkland, and garages versus quality of life, are competing rights. But it is also clear which rights should take precedence. There is no way Princeton can pro-vide affordable housing for all those people who want to live here. In an ideal world, there would be affordable housing for everyone.

In the real world, there can never be enough. To take parkland in Princeton to build equivalent of New York "May It Remain Intact" building housing in Central Park. It is the ultimate robbing To the Editor of Town Topics: of Peter to pay Paul, worse, something they're not making tact!

The same is true of parking. Are we really going to continue

Chinese Scholar Thanks Princeton Hosts

To the Editor of Town Topics:

1 am a visiting scholar in Princeton University. I know how busy you must be with your work. But I do hope you will be able to find time to read this short letter.

I was invited by Prof. Bede Liu and Prof. S.C. Schwartz in Department of Electrical Engineering one and half years ago. Now I am going to leave Princeton on the day after tomorrow. In this letter, I am not going to talk about my research work and how kind of Prof. Schwartz and Prof. Liu. The only thing I want to tell you is two ordinary American Family, one is my host family, Mr. and Mrs. R.A. Merritts and one is my English tutor Mr. and Mrs. K.W. Morgan.

Ever since I arrived, I have enjoyed nothing but their warmest and hospitality. Especially Mrs. Merritts and Mrs. Morgan give me a motherly love. It is my unforgettable experience in my life. They help me familiar with the American daily life, teach my English and take care of my health.

In this time I hope I can express my heartfelt thanks for these two American family. I will consider this is the evidence of the friendship between Chinese and American.

The another thing, by which t am deeply touched is the friendly attitude of Princeton policeman. Last winter I lived in Madison Street. Every morning I have to across the Nassau Street to my office. Once t arrive the corner of Olden Street, the policeman always come out to stop the car from both side so that I can successfully walk across the Nassau Street. The policeman stand in the middle of the street with smile to me in the cold wind.

Almost an entire Winter! I don't know their name by now but I will never forget these moving scene. It will remain in my memory for ever.

t hope you will not mind my approaching you in this way. With hest regards.

It comes down to this: do we want to maintain the quality of life in Princeton or do we seek clearly discredited "solutions" to complex social problems, which solutions are nothing more than band aids? The fact is: the cries for more parking and affordable housing can never be fully satisifed in a healthy town.

You never stop paying for cheap furniture.

Mrs. X bought her $500 bargain sofa two years ago, on Double Coupon Day.

Now it has faded, and the cushions sag ... even when no one is sitting on them.

She's also decided she really didn't like it in the first place. But she bought it because it was so cheap.

So she'll get rid of it and buy another. It has cost her $250 a year. If she keeps this up, in eight years she will have spent $2,000!

Mrs. Y bought her $1,000 sofa eight years ago. It was well-crafted, and tailored in a durable fabric created by a top designer.

She likes it better today than she did on the day she bought it.

Mrs. Y's fine sofa has cost her $125 a year, so far. Half of what Mrs. X's cheap sofa has cost her. She'll probably keep it for several more years, so the prorated cost of buying the best will be even less. That's our point.

Which 2 coaches have won the most NCAA national championships in men's major-college basketball history? First is John Wooden who won the amazing total of 10 titles at UCLA The coach with the second-most: Adolph Rupp who won 4 at Kentucky.

Here's an unbelievable fact ... Even though Phoenix of the National Basketball Association out-scored their opponents one season - getting more total points than their opponents they, incredibly, finished in LAST place! ... Phoenix scored 8,603 points in the 1976-77 season, while their opponents got only 8,543 against them, yet Phoenix still lost 48 games and won only 34 -setting an amazing record

Here's an oddity . 2 different sports - basketball and volleyball -were invented just a few miles from each other in the same decade ... Basketball was invented by James Naismith in 1891 in Springfield, Mass., and volleyball was invented in neighboring Holyoke, Mass., by William Morgan in 1895.

Two all-league players and a third solid performer give the Tigers the best outfield in the EIBL. Tri-captain Dan Arendas, a third team all-American. established Princeton season records for batting average (.440), hits (66), doubles (21), and runs scored (45). He will roam centerfield, where he made only two errors in 103 chances last year.

To his left will be junior Drew Stratton, the team leader in four baggers with 11, and a .325 hitter. His game-saving catch against Harvard will be long remembered.

In left field will be Tom Urquhart, who also will be remembered for a superlative effort against the Crimson his free kick return for the winning touchdown last fall. Although not named to a league all-star team, Urquhart was no slouch last year, hitting .322, driving in 17 runs out of the lead-off spot, and leading the team in stolen bases with 20.

O'Connell hopes his team's fielding, which fell off a bit last year, will improve to help out the pitching staff. He sees a close league race with Harvard and Navy looming as the principal contenders for the crown. Dartmouth and Cornell may challenge also, he feels.

Northwestern Stays Put

There had been talk, after Ron Rogerson was hired, about trying to find a replacement for Northwestern on Princeton's 1986 and 1987 football schedules. but no change will be made.

When he signed on with the Tigers, Rogerson said he was not anxious to play the Big 10 team, and attempts were made to get Princeton out of the two-year contract. Davidson was mentioned as a possible substitute this

But Northwestern was not able to find a replacement on its schedule, and Princeton will honor its two-year commitment. The Evanston, Illinois school will play here next September 27, and Princeton will travel there in September, 1987.

That '87 schedule will find the Tigers on the road for their first three contests, the first time that has happened since the centennial year, 1969. They will open in Hanover against Dart-mouth, fly to Northwestern the following weekend, and then play Brown in Providence. The first contest in Palmer Stadium will not come until October 10 against Columbia.

The luck of the schedule, changed a bit this year, has the Tigers playing Navy away for the second consecutive year because of a switch in traveling partners. Princeton will now be paired with Cornell. The doubleheader against Harvard will also be on the road.

But league play doesn't begin until the first weekend in April tributed four. when Army and Columbia will be here for doubleheaders on the fifth and sixth. First the Tigers will travel to Florida for a week of competition, beginning with two games this Sun- two.

They will meet Eckerd at 1 p.m. and Florida Southern at night; St. Petersburg Junior College on Monday, and Polk and South Florida, Tuesday. Five more games are set from next Wednesday through Satur-

The home opener at Clarke Field will be Wednesday, March 26 against Seton Hall, followed by another contest Friday against Coppin State.

Williams on Second Team For All-Ivy Basketball

Princeton's junior center, Alan Williams, was the only Tiger player to be voted on one of the two all-Ivy teams, in balloting by the league's coaches recently.

Williams was named to the second team, along with Brown's Mike Waitkus, Cornell's Drew Martin, both seniors; Bruce Lefkowitz of Penn, another junior; and

Selected for the first team were three juniors, John Bajusz of Cornell, Perry Bromwell of Penn, and Yale's center, Chris Dudley. Two seniors, Tom Gwydir of Columbia and Jim Turner of Brown, round out the top five.

Turner, who tallied more points than anyone else in league competition, averaging more than 24 points per game, was named Ivy Player of the Year. Dartmouth's Jim Barton just edged out Princeton's Bob Scrabis for Ivy Rookie of the Year honors

It is essential that all teams interested in participating in the league during 1986 send a representative.

Veteran contenders for the top three midfields include: seniors Bill Ellsworth and Todd Rizzieri, juniors Dave Kopp, Tom Stackpole and John Vincent, and sophomores John Rousakis and Jay Wood.

Schmidt has singled out one freshman, John Kenney from Manhasset, N.Y., as someone to be watched. "He's got a hard shot," Schmidt says. Give him a few games and he should be from last season return, senior John Donovan and junior Rick Kirschner. Other candidates within this unit are junior Amiel Bethel and sophomores Tom Clyde, Andy Macaleer and Tom Wolper.

Overall, the Tigers may be just as successful as their fast break. "We live and die by the fast, break," Schmidt concludes. "We stress recognition, 4 on 3 and 5 on 4. We like to get the ball upfield quickly and make things exciting.'

Schmidt is also stressing conditioning. "We hope to make this the best-conditioned team since I've been here, a true 'fourth-quarter' team that wins the close ones.

That's what the Tigers need to change their fortunes.

her senior partner.
"When Frances Clark need to started," Miss Goss begins, writing. "there were the haves and the not-talented. The basic pedagogical attitude was 'copy me,' with the teacher not giving reasons or offering experiences that would tead to logical, orderly growth.

"Through her writing and workshops, Frances has turned this around, to the notion that music is every child's second native tongue, that every child can know the joy of music, and that every child can learn piano life," Miss Goss continues.

she's teaching children first, music second, and piano is almost incidental to the first two. The systematized study materials are a written interest on two musical phrases outgrowth of that school of thought," she adds.

Musicianship. The Frances Clark "method" — a term Miss Clark avoids - combines ear training, rhythm, reading, technique, transposing and composing — total musicianship - from the start, but it begins with the ear, "Music is sound," Miss Clark explains, "and everything begins with how a thing sounds. When a child is really aware of that and it is awareness that changes a child's face — then we show him how to make that

"First is the ear, then experiencing how it feels to make the sound at the piano, and then seeing the notation that stands for the sound. Only when he really feels comfortable in making and seeing that sound do we finally give him the name

In another departure from have-nots, the talented and the custom, students begin on the black keys before progressing to the white keys as they are grouped around the black. Each new musical "discovery" is followed by using it in various ways immediately and incorporating and reinforcing it in subsequent lessons.

Music Belongs. The idea, Miss Clark says, is to "make a child feel that music is something for him — not something that exists down in the Library well, not only for future of Congress. Music is about musical enrichment and ex-something, a series of ideas, musical enrichment and ex-perience but as part of normal full of cause and effect. Whatever happens in the first phrase "She really studied the natu-tells the piano student what he ral order of growth, so that must do about the second. You don't have one idea, and the next one totally unrelated."

Miss Clark says she knows she can hold a young student's longer than she ever dreamed she would be able to - and also have him leave the studio saying, "Can we do that again?" Similarly children at the New School enjoy playing recitals, because, as she explains, "they know their material. It's theirs, they own it. The teacher hasn't learned it. Anytime you know something, and know you know it, you're rich."

Miss Clark traces her teaching to educational philosophers such as John Amos Commenius, Alfred North Whitehead, John Dewey and Maria Montessori — none of whom were piano teachers. She believes that "everything grows out of what the student already knows" and that the primary concern of the teacher is to teach the student to teach themselves and to become expendable in the process.
